MLA blames vandalism on education

Mr. Robert Fordham, MLA for Footscray, has blamed migrants and their frustration with the education system, for the west's increase in vandalism.

He said migrant children are "tremendously frustrated" because they have the ability to do well at school, but are not getting the required attention from the Education Department.

Mr. Fordham is the Labor Party spokesman on education.

He said of the 595 children attending the Altona East Primary School, 300 are in need of special language help from their Victorian primary Child Migrant Education schools, are considered to need this assistance.

Only 38 were being helped this year.

At Altona North Primary School, 474 needed the help and only 64 were getting it, Mr Fordham said.

"The frustration migrants feel is being revealed in increasing vandalism and other social problems," he added.

"Despite repeated assurances by the Minister for Education (Mr. Thompson), migrant education services in Victoria are rapidly deteriorating. "For the first time the true picture of the tragedy of migrant children in schools is emerging.

"The worst affected primary schools are those in the western suburbs.

"The callous and indifferent approach of the State Government is shameful. In the west pressing social problems are not being recognised.

"Migrants are encouraged to come here with all sorts of promises, but their most immediate needs are being ignored.

He said statistical returns this year showed that of the total number of children in primary schools (380,813), headmasters had defined 105,551 migrant children

"Of those 105,551 children, nearly 85,000 are getting no help. No figures are available for secondary schools."

Mr. Fordham said he believed the lack of aid for young migrants would result in greater illiteracy among secondary students in coming years.

"Many students are already leaving school still unable to read and write English."

"The real tragedy is that these children are under-achieving — they have the ability, and just need a little specialised help."

"Unless the Government introduces a crash programme to improve the English of migrants, this problem will take a generation to overcome," he said.

Mr. Joe Caputo, Director of the Western Region Community Relations Committee said this week the figures produced by Mr. Fordham indicate the discrimination facing working people at all levels of public institutions.

"They also show that migrant workers are still considered as factory fodder, and are not given the equal opportunity, that is every citizen's right," he said.

City's young need gathering place

Altona's teenagers are using the Altona East branch library as a meeting place because they virtually have no other place to go, Miss Gina Fiske told the Star this week.

Miss Fiske is the district's YMCA Outreach worker, and is based at the library.

She said most of the young people using the library to "rave (meet and talk), formerly gathered at fish and chip shops or cafes.

"Kids really need facilities... somewhere they can just get together to talk and muck around... and let's face it, there isn't much in Altona at present.

"My work with these kids would be much more effective if they had places to go — drop-in-type centres — and places to hold dances or learn different things."

"What I'm trying to do is help them gain confidence in themselves, learn how to use the community's resources, get the job that suits them and so on."

"At the moment I'm meeting them on the streets. What we need is some small place that can be staffed by volunteers with whom the kids can relate."

In her first report to Altona Council, which provides $2500 a year to help her work, Miss Fiske explained the need for the shop-front centre.

She said there could be a potential use for the Altona North Youth Hall in developing programmes for the areas youth.

However, she added that the hall was not being fully used at present because the teenagers "have a need for a casual talkings situation rather than a structured learning organisation."

After the report, councillors asked that the town clerk, Mr. Syd Fell, investigate the viability of using the Altona North Youth Hall for the purposes associated with the work of Miss Fiske.

They also agreed to form a sub-committee to discuss a programme to assist Altona's youth.

Members of the committee will be Cr. Steve Clement, Cr. Ray Richards, Cr. Ted Hubble, Miss Fiske and Mr. Dennis Morgan (recreation officer).

Miss Gina Fiske, Altona's Outreach worker, with 16-year-old Tony D'Angelo.

Peter Bodey is not the luckiest of sportsmen... although he's beginning to think maybe his troubles are more to do with voodoo.

Peter is the South Melbourne Bloods football team's playing secretary. Last week was the second time the Bloods have met Altona's champion Vikings on Grant Reserve... and the second time Peter has been carried off on a stretcher.

This is the first year the team has competed in the Western Suburbs Football League.

The first game was in April, and Peter was transferred from stretcher to ambulance, to hospital. He had broken five ribs.

Last week his ribs suffered again, but this time he was able to go home by club bus.

He swore to Bloods supporters after the match that the problem wasn't anything to do with Viking rough play...

But he has his doubts about Grant Reserve.

Four schools in drama festival

Students from four schools are taking part in the annual Altona drama festival for western-suburbs secondary schools at the Altona Civic Hall tonight and tomorrow night (July 7 and 8).

The schools are Footscray Girls, Laverton High (Wednesday), St. John's College and Maribyrnong High (Thursday).

Performances begin at 8. Tickets (students 40c, adults 80c) will be available at the door.

St. John's students have written their own script for "Class of '84".

Lorna Kirwood-Jones is the adjudicator.

The festival is run by the Altona Drama Group and Altona City Theatre.

The Altona Council is giving prizes for the best actor, best actress, best school production ($50 and perpetual trophy), best runner-up school ($20), best individual performance in each play.

Bill wins medal for history

By JOSLIN RYAN

Wilson (Bill) Evans, the man who has most of Williamstown's past virtually at his fingertips, was one of only two men in the west to be awarded honors on the Queen's Birthday list.

He won the British Empire Medal for his historical research. Cr. Matt Harris, of Footscray, was also awarded the BEM, for community service.

Cr. Harris said last week he would refuse the honor, except others had put so much effort into putting his name forward.

"But I have no intention in following in the footsteps of others where this award is concerned," Mr. Evans said.

"I'm very proud... I believe it's a great honor."

He is a Williamstown man, born and bred in the district, the descendant of pioneers who opened the early blue-stone quarries.

The stone was shipped from the local docks to all parts of Australasia.

"I think it was my grandparents, on both sides of the family, who first sparked my interest in history," he said.

"I know I was about 11, 40 years ago, when I started collecting old documents.

"They were pulling down the old customs shed near Gem Pier then, and we kids were fascinated.

"I got hold of a discarded bundle of old documents — and that was the start of my collection.

"Since then I've gathered in hundreds of thousands of pages... all of them telling something about the district's past."

Bill Evans is a lanky man with a "very co-operative" family and a good sense of humor.

"You have to have a sense of humor really, otherwise some of the phone calls you inevitably get around 1 a.m. would drive you up the wall."

"Strange phone calls, some of them, more often than not the caller is ringing me to settle a 20 cent bet on some point of Williamstown history."

"Can be a little tiresome."

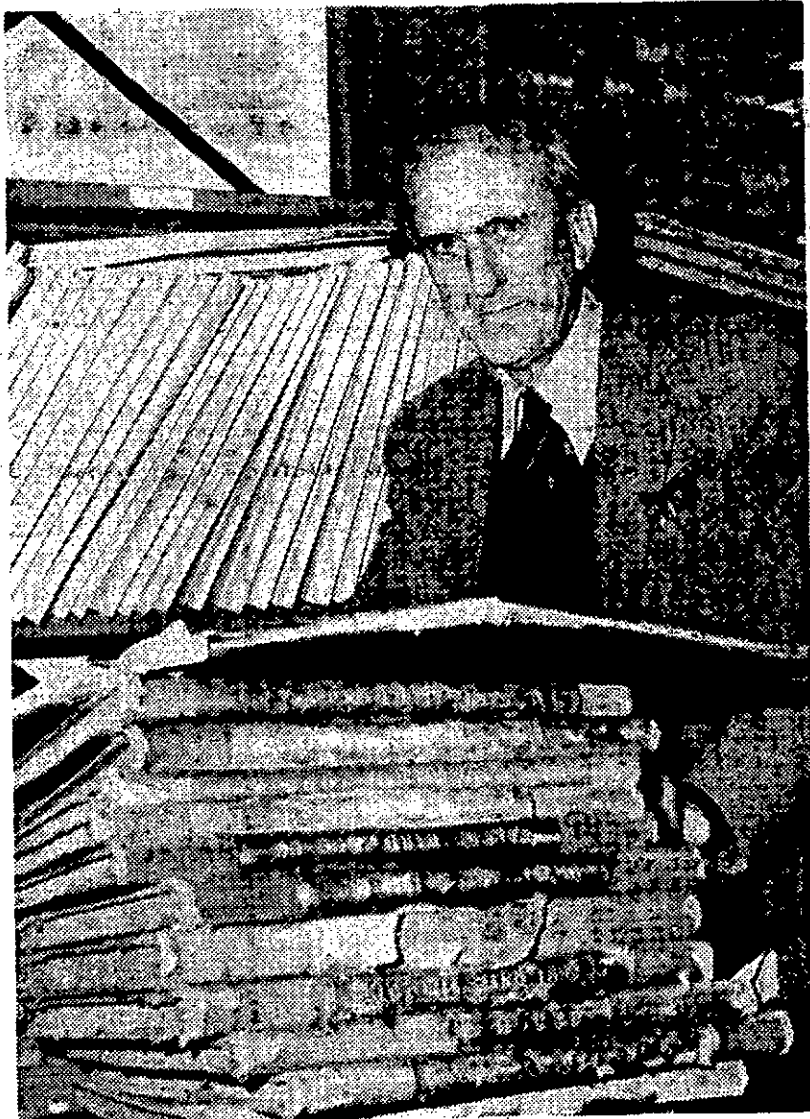

The Evans family lives in Anzac Crescent, where a room is set aside for part of Bill's enormous document collection.

When the Williamstown Historical Society was formed in 1956, Bill naturally, was one of the foundation members.

In 1960, he was appointed the city's official historian, and took up offices at the town hall. Over the years he has been through four typewriters, compiling thousands of pages of notes.

He has also written an authoritative history of the district, titled Port of Many Prows.

"I have a lot of patience... but only where history is concerned."

• Bill Evans... he won't give back the BEM.

cerned. With other things, and people, I am dreadfully impatient."

"But I love my work, and it's the kind of job that requires an awful lot of time and attention to detail."

"Researching the history of one single-fronted house, for instance, can take around three weeks. There are no short cuts in going through old ratebooks and council files."

"House numbers, over the years, can change. Then you are left to try to discover your particular house by the number of rooms, and so on."

Until a few years ago, Bill's principal research revolved around Williamstown's shipping and architecture. Ships are still his favorite topic, and old paintings of sailing vessels adorn the walls of his home.

However, apart from his daily, and nightly research, Bill is a constant source of information for university students from almost every faculty.

Before becoming a full-time historian, Bill worked for the Federal public service, "which gave me an enormous head start with the administration angle of his job."

Fire pay-out up 8½ pc

Altona Council will have to pay $59,319 to the Metropolitan Fire Brigades Board this financial year, an increase over last year of more than 8½ per cent. Last year's payment was $54,646.

Stay on flats

An application for permission to build six villa units on 72-74 Civic Parade, has been deferred by the council to the next general-purposes committee meeting when the planning officer will attend.

The applicants, Simland Investment, have asked for dispensation to build the units only 10 feet from the side street.

More shops

Councillors have agreed in principle with the proposed development of a shopping complex on the Humes quarry site in Millers Road.

The approval is subject to the submission of more detailed plans, and Board of Works agreement to the proposal.

Being heard

A tender of $813 from Australian Sound and Television has been accepted by council for the installation of a public address system for the heated pool at Lynch Reserve.

Six dogs

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Noble, of Sixth Avenue, Altona North, have been given council's permission to keep six cocker spaniel dogs on the premises.

BRANDY, THEN A CHECK

A man who admitted to a blood alcohol reading of .175 after a night of brandy and chess was fined $100 in Williamstown Court on Thursday.

He is Fehim Malkoc, 41, of the Esplanade, Altona.

He pleaded guilty to charges of .05 driving, and failing to give way at an intersection.

Constable John Francis, of Kingsville told the court he was on duty at 1.25 a.m. on June 18 when he was called to attend a two-car collision at the intersection of Melbourne Road and Mason Street, Newport.

"I saw a white Valiant parked in Mason Street, facing left. It was damaged in the front. Another car, a Holden, was also on the roadway, and damaged on the left-hand door panels."

"A person was staggering and stumbling towards the cars, and the driver of the Holden told me this person was the driver of the Valiant."

"The man identified himself as Fehim Malkoc, and while I was talking to him, I noticed his eyes were glazed and he was swaying on his feet."

"He told me he had been looking for the police station. He admitted he had been drinking that night."

Paid for damage

"A breath test at the Footscray police station revealed Malkoc had a blood-alcohol reading of .175," Const. Francis said.

"He told me he didn't know why he had driven his car when his .05 reading was so high. He said, when asked why he had failed to give way at the intersection: 'I thought I was all right.'"

Counsel for Malkoc, told Mr. D. Scully, SM, that his client had been out to dinner that night and had been playing chess and drinking brandy.

"I think he had more brandy than he should have," he said.

He added that Malkoc had come to Australia from Yugoslavia in 1968, and had been driving a car here since then without coming to the attention of police.

Malkoc has already voluntarily paid the other driver $214 in

New school block open

The Federal Minister for Education, Mr. John Carrick, officially opened the new M. M. Molland junior school at Williamstown Grammar School on Saturday.

The new classroom block has been named after Miss M. Molland to commemorate her 49 years of service to the school as headmistress.

Altona man, go

A long-time Altona resident, Mr. Bill Dickinson, celebrated his 90th birthday last week.

Mr. Dickinson has lived in Bayview Street, Altona, for nearly 60 years.

He is a member of the Altona Elderly Citizens' Club and a regular church-goer at St. Mary's Church, Altona.

More than 60 friends and family attended a party for Mr. Dickinson at the home of his daughter (Mrs. Tuckett) in Hancock Street, Altona, last Sunday week.

Square dance at Spotswood

A square dance has been organised at Spotswood Methodist Church Hall on Friday, at 8 p.m.

Another special occasion arranged by the church is a women's service, to be conducted at 5 p.m. on Sunday, July 18.

'SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN' GETS PRISON

A young driver, described by his former employer as "the Six Million Dollar Man", was sentenced in Williamstown Court on Thursday to 14 days' jail.

Nick Siketa, 20, of Mason Street, Newport, pleaded guilty to driving without a licence, using insulting words, careless driving and exceeding the 60kph speed limit.

Constable David Kurrie of Williamstown police, told the court he had been driving north on Melbourne Road, Williamstown on Saturday, May 1, when he noticed a Falcon towing a trailer in front of the police car.

"I intercepted the car because there was someone on the trailer holding on to a couple of motor bikes," he said.

"I told the driver it was not the right thing to do, to have someone standing in the trailer, and he said he would tie the bikes down.

"I then walked around the car to do a roadworthy check," he said.

"As I walked past the passenger side window, the window was wound down, and the passenger called out to me: 'pigs, bloody pigs.'"

"I asked the passenger his name and address. He told me he didn't know.

"Later at the Williamstown police station he said his name was Nick Siketa, and he lived in Mason Street, Newport.

"He was lodged in the cells," Const. Kurrie said.

Constable Geoff Burnard also of Williamstown police told the court he had also intercepted Siketa on May 1.

"The police car was parked in Ferguson Street when a car accelerated out of James Street, sliding sideways with a screech of tyres into Ferguson Street.

"It then sped off to turn into Douglas Parade. I followed in the police car for about one kilometre, during which time the car ahead reached speeds of between 75 and 90 kph.

"The car braked sharply to turn right into Delgarno Street, where I intercepted the driver.

"He identified himself as Nick Siketa, of Mason Street, Newport, and denied reaching the speeds mentioned, or driving carelessly at the intersections."

The police then presented evidence that Siketa had his probationary driver's licence cancelled at Flemington court on February 24 this year.

He had also been fined on a charge of exceeding the speed limit.

Miss Annette Holt, of Brunswick, told the court she was engaged to Siketa, and expecting his baby in October.

She said she had been living with him during February, but did not know he was expected at Flemington Court that month.

She told the magistrate, Mr. D. Scully, that Siketa was helping to support her and they intended to marry shortly.

Mr. Ernest Costello, a foreman at R. J. Gilbertson's, said Siketa had been working under him for five months, was "reliable and willing, and working 60-70 hours a week and earns about $170."

Mr. Franko Razlog, a former employer of Siketa, said he knew "the boy and his family well. We come from the same town in Yugoslavia," he said.

"He's a good fellow with his work, but when he gets into his car, he's the Six Million Dollar Man."

Siketa, questioned by his barrister, Mr. Bill Pinner, said he had not attended Flemington Court on February 24.

He said he hadn't known his licence had been cancelled that day and didn't know until about two days after he had been "pulled up" in Williamstown in May.

However, cross-questioned by the police prosecutor, Siketa said he had received a notice from Flemington in March which said his licence had been cancelled and that he had a fine to pay.

He said he paid the fine in Newport during March.

Mr. Scully sentenced Siketa to 14 days' imprisonment on the unlicensed driving charge, $80 for exceeding the speed limit, $30 for careless driving and another $30 for using insulting words.

He also disqualified him from obtaining a licence for four months.

Hi Girls,

Cyclax have a special offer at the moment, a 3 in 1 pack containing Milk of Roses, Moisturising Cleansing Balm and Flower Balm Freshener, all for the small price of $4.95 (normal price of Milk of Roses alone).

These three products should be used in the morning before applying makeup, and at night (except, a night creme should be used instead of Milk of Roses).

The first step, Moisturised Cleansing Balm, contains natural almond oil, apply liberally with fingertips over face and neck, this cleanses gently and thoroughly, removing makeup and grime, remove with a tissue.

This is then followed up by the Flower Balm Freshener — this very mild toning lotion contains cucumber juice, cools and refreshes the skin. Apply gently with cotton wool over face and neck, this removes last traces of makeup and cleanser.

Then apply Milk of Roses Moisture Balm — A smooth light textured moisturiser, keeps skin soft and supple, helps protect against dryness. Smooth gently over face and neck. Now you are ready to apply your makeup.

Revlon have just added a new color to their lipstick and nail polish range and it is called Daring Young Red. It is available in frosted or creme.

Also, Revlon have a great special at the moment, a pack of 4 eyeshadows for only $3.95 giving you color, contour and highlighter in one container.

Tribunal supports flats decision

The Town Planning Appeals Tribunal has supported an Altona Council decision to refuse developers' permission to build four villa units in Rose Street.

The developers, B. Borkovis and M. Corluka, had appealed to the tribunal after the council had turned down their plan.

The council was strongly supported in its view, that the development would result in a relatively high density of flats, by the residents of Rose Street.

They believe there are insufficient facilities in the area to serve a greater population, and that Rose Street residents would be adversely affected by the increase in noise and traffic more flats would bring.

The proposal was for four villa units at 25 Rose Street — 132 ft. north of Lyth Street.

At the conclusion of the appeal hearing, the tribunal stated that the plan, in its present form, represents an overdevelopment of the site, and has quite a number of undesirable features.

"We appreciate the feelings of the residents, and agree that there must come a point where no further flat development should be allowed in a street.

"We are inclined to think that such a point has most been reached.

"However, while appreciating those matters, we think, in fairness to the appellants, we should say that it may be that a proposal which was better designed involving fewer units, might find approval.

"That is a matter for them to pursue as they think fit. Should such a proposal proceed, we think that the limit of unit development probably be reached in Rose Street," the tribunal said.

Neale wins USA trip

Neale Knott, 16, a student at Williamstown Technical School, will leave on Saturday, July 17, for a year in the USA.

He is one of 31 Victorians to win an American Field Scholarship.

Neale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Knott, of Stephenson Street, Spotswood.

He was chosen for the scholarship from 22 applicants throughout the western area of Melbourne, going through three interviews, submitting essays and his school report.

It was only curiosity in the first place that prompted Neale to write away to the field scholarship organisation. He had seen the AFS notice on the tech. school's daily bulletin board.

"They sent me an application form, and things sort of snowballed from there," he said.

He will spend 12 months in Toulon, Illinois, and is likely to study America's equivalent to the Higher School Certificate.

"I've been told by an American student I know that their HSC is not anywhere near as tough as ours.

"I know I've already done most of their maths. I've got the syllabus from the school I'll be at — Toulon Lafayette.

"They really have a beautiful range of things to do — like agriculture, geology, American history and electives like photography and driving.

"I'll be doing physics and maths, American history, agriculture and photography.

"But one thing I know nothing about is baseball — I think I'll be teaching them cricket and football..."

Neale will be billeted with a family in Toulon. They have sons aged 18 and 14, and will show their Australian visitor as much of America as they find possible.

"I'm not expecting too much — after all, I think they are only an ordinary family, like ours, and we don't go out all that much.

"I would like to see

SDisneyland, but I don't mind staying at home at nights either.

Neale is a venturescout with the 2nd Newport group, and a congratulatory gift was presented to him at the group's last meeting.

He will join the scout movement in America before returning home to undertake work towards his Queen's Scout Award.

Mini fair

A mini fair featuring jams, fancy goods, cakes and jams will be held at Andrew's Sunday school hall in Cecil Street, Williamstown, at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 10.

ACTIVE group to be formed

An organisation to help the parents of hyper-active (excessively active) children is to be set up in the western suburbs.

A public meeting to form a branch of the group, ACTIVE, will be held at Deer Park on July 14.

Six ACTIVE groups have been set up in Melbourne in the past five years.

A Deer Park resident, Mrs. Janice Sporry, said many people could be helped by a group at Deer Park.

Unmanageable children sometimes are found to be hyper-active.

It is not considered a mental disorder and children usually outgrow it as they reach their teens.

Mrs. Sporry said parents with a hyper-active child needed somewhere to go for help and reassurance.

Some of the symptoms of hyper-activity are tendencies for a child to become unmanageable in crowds or in places like supermarkets where they are bombarded with color and sound.

Such children often would throw a tantrum if they didn't get what they wanted.

They tend to become completely absorbed in activities, appearing not to notice events around them.

As they become tired, they often become more agitated rather than slowing down. Often they don't sleep long hours.

Mrs. Sporry said as well as helping parents, ACTIVE was seeking Government assistance in treating hyper-active children.

Research was revealing that artificial food additives such as dyes and preservatives and some fruits, contributed towards hyper-activity in some children.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m., on July 14, at the Deer Park community health services meeting hall.

All parents who think the association could help them are invited to attend.

The 'army's' big day

The annual Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal will be held throughout Australia on Sunday (July 11).

The Red Shield is the symbol of a world-wide and renowned service to the lonely, the sick, the unwanted, socially deprived, deserted family, lected child-drop-out, drug dependant and alcoholic.

However, even with the Salvation Army, with its ability to make every dollar count, needs substantial help to finance its aid programmes.

The Army has asked the public, business and private, to support the upkeep and extension of its charitable and community services.

The door-knock will begin in Williamstown early on the Sunday, and anyone wishing to volunteer help can contact Captain Gledson Wood on 397 5942.

Church fair

A "mini-fair" will be held in St. Andrew's Church Hall, Cecil Street, Williamstown on Saturday, July 10.

It will begin at 10 a.m. and will include a variety of toys, cakes and jams.

The annual and bigger St. Andrew's fair will be held on Saturday, October 2.

Scouts hold swim night

The 1st Altona Scouts will join in the combined district swim night at the Footscray baths on Friday, July 16.

A bus will take the boys to the pool from the Scout hall at 7.30 p.m.

Boys are now entering their names for Australia's 11th Scout jamboree, to be held at Dandenong's Rossmoyne Park at the end of the year.

Applications will close on July 15.

More than 14,000 boys between the ages of 12 and 15 will camp at Rossmoyne Park for one week.

Richard Norton and Dean Fraser didn't have time for photographer Peter Charles when he called into the Ronald Avenue kindergarten in Altona. The boys are 4½-years-old.

VERA WELLS

Altona

Although it is not the best weather to be going down to the beach end of Pier Street, it was worth while just to see what a good job the council has done to that ugly old corner where the shops used to be. I love to see all those trees they have set. I hope you don't mind, but once again I would like to speak of the old days.

This corner was owned by a Mr. Davey, and was always referred to as Davey's corner.

You'll see why when I describe how fully he used all the space.

Facing Pier Street was the shop where he sold sweets, cakes, soft drinks, &c.

At the back of the shop, with an entrance also on the beachfront, was his ABC cafe.

There was a small area on the very corner, rounded off and closed in, to be a kiosk where fruit was sold.

On the beach front, next to the cafe, was a shedlike building that he used for changing rooms for visiting bathers, charging them a penny a time. This was later used by the lifesavers.

He also charged one penny to use his toilets.

Along the side of the shed was the entrance to rows of bungalows which he let to holidaymakers.

Many new residents lived there until they got settled on their own land.

The cafe was used as a school on week days, and let to cater for weddings and 21st parties and other social gatherings.

One very vivid memory of those old days was one New Year's Eve as we stood outside the cafe as a gathering by the Scottish residents took place.

We had a group of newly-arrived Scots in the early twenties. Wonderful people.

At the stroke of 12 they came out on the beach front. I will never forget the emotional scenes as these folk, so far from home, sang and danced in the new year.

Never have I heard since such a meaningful and beautiful sound as their singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

They sang "It takes all sorts of people to make a world" and its surely true our early Scots helped to make a lovely Altona.

LAURIE SLEE

W'town.

Once upon a time, so the story goes, there were lots of community works undertaken by volunteers.

Men, women and children banded together in common cause to clean up some eyesore, to build some sorely-needed amenity, to help some needy person.

Axes and chain-saws cut wood for the winter warmth of pensioners; shovels, picks and mattocks cleaned up many a hallowed place to make it spic and span for remembrance.

All by volunteers, so the story goes.

Opportunity shops have spread like a rash of measles, but of far greater use, and these are served by the voluntary worker.

With this notable exception that applies chiefly to women, rosters have largely ceased to work.

Insurance and all that stuff has discouraged the voluntary worker from taking jobs that hold some risk.

With shorter hours there is less time to give to rosters because of changing life styles.

Cars, TV, sports and committees of many projects that capture the imagination of the few point to the changes in life style our fathers didn't know about.

And then some parents are re-discovering that the best community work they can do is to care for their family properly.

New life for St. John's

By a Special Correspondent.

One of Williamstown's several historic churches — the newly-named St. John's, in Electra Street — is now being restored, so it will continue to be a vital part of Williamstown.

The 100-year-old building was slowly crumbling and rusting, despite the regular maintenance, mortar, brickwork, plaster, ironwork, guttering, ridge-capping, ventilators — the lot.

Drainage was suspect, with water probably staying too close to the foundations.

One wall was severely cracked and the crack appeared to be growing wider.

A wide range of experts climbed over the building several times over two years and advised the present property board of the church that the building was nearing the end of its life unless restoration work began immediately.

Restoration work requires experts and experts cost money.

Where would a congregation of 130 members get $15,000 to spend to restore St. John's Methodist Church for both Williamstown's and Victoria's posterity?

Loans are reasonably easy to get; it is getting out of debt that poses the problem.

Would the friends of St. John's be glad to help, each according to his ability?

The property board thought so. The leaders meeting of the church agreed.

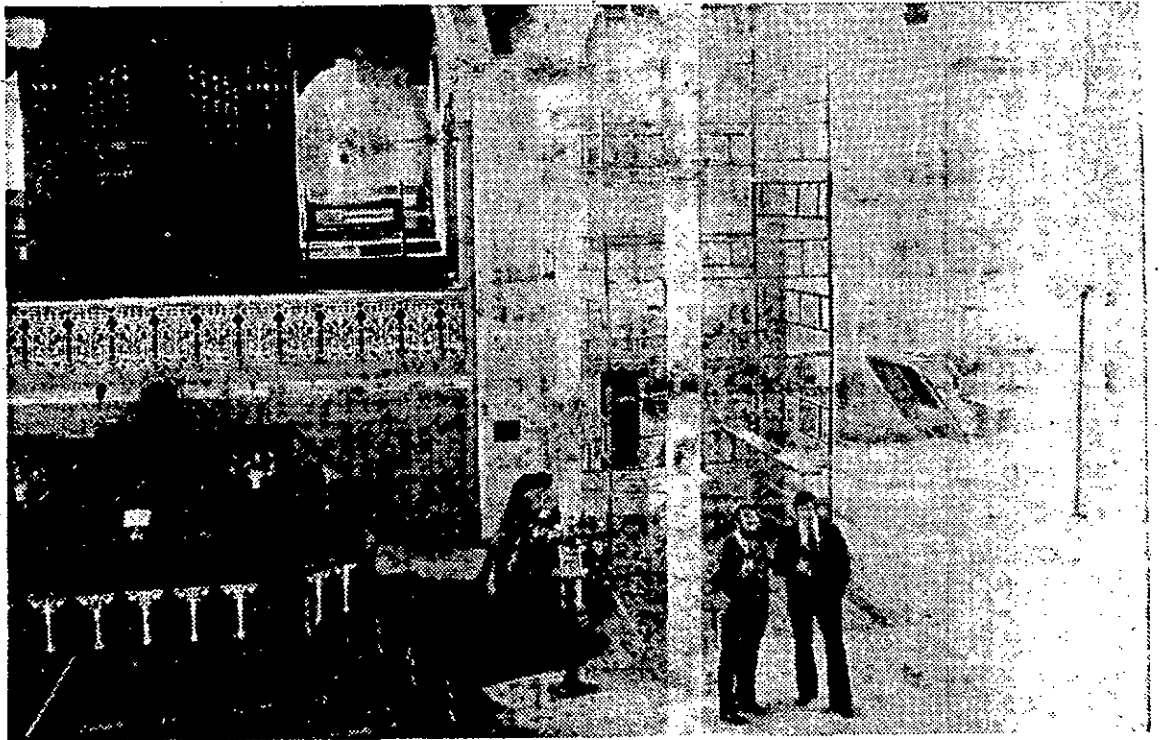

And who are the friends of St. John's?

To some, St. John's is a beautiful building to sketch; a fine example of architecture; part of the national heritage which should not be lost.

While some of these have remained in Williamstown, others have scattered.

To some, St. John's has beautiful building to sketch; a fine example of architecture; part of the national heritage which should not be lost.

Friends help to restore church and Smith to a plan prepared by Messrs. Crouch and Wilson, architects.

The extension — stage two — with the addition of the choir loft and pipe organ was carried out in 1891-93.

As far as can be ascertained, the cost of the original building — or stage one — was £2731 and the cost of the extensions that comprised stage two, £1158 with the organ costing £650.

Mr. A. W. Hick designed the choir loft, the organ was supplied and installed by Finch and Hobday, of Melbourne and was a gift from E. Gaunt, a member of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, as it was then known.

From resources within the congregation, $6000 has already been given towards the cost of restoration.

Friends of the four winds have given another $2000 and industry had stretched this $8000 by generous discounting it is difficult to estimate.

Private citizens not of the Methodist way have declared their good will via their wallets.

The property board at St. John's has been thrilled — and humbled — by the many friends.

There is quite a mess around St. John's at present. But out of the mess will arise a 'new' church for a new century of love and service: both to God and the people.

Parcel charges

New scales of postal charges for parcels came into effect last Thursday.

Announcing the changes, the State manager of Australia Post, Mr. R. J. Page said, "A most significant change is the introduction of a special charge for local delivery parcels."

Mr. Page said that the charge for a parcel lodged at the post office where delivery is made can be as low as 46 cents if six or more parcels are lodged at the same time by the same sender.

If only one parcel is lodged, the charge can be as low as 56 cents.

Mr. Page said that the lowest charge for parcels used to be 86 cents for those sent within 50 km of the posting office. This charge has now dropped to 75 cents.

Charges for airmail, interstate and parcels going further than 50 km within the State have also dropped.

CROQUET WOMEN ARE 'SELFISH' SAYS CR

Williamstown's Croquet Club was selfish, Mr. Graham Proctor said at the last meeting of Williamstown council.

He was commenting on the decision by the club to refuse to share its rooms with the women of the West Side Ladies Club.

Councillors referred the croquet club's "refusal" letter to the recreation and leisure committee.

owned by the council, which had asked the women to share its facilities with the West Side group.

what has been worrying me for a year — public funds being used to support a private body," Cr. Proctor said.

pavilion, and no one else can come in. It's a selfish outlook.

"I hope the committee bands their heads together."

Cr. Peter Lalor said the croquet club was extremely proud of the pavilion and went to a great deal of trouble to look after it.

"It is a good organisation helping a lot of people enjoy themselves."

"When the conservation society used the building for a recent meeting, two men from the club were there tending the fire. They even made us a cup of tea," he said.

"I believe it is important not to ruin one group for the sake of another. They are the ratepayers."

"The pavilion is public property, and if they take pride in the building that is a very good thing."

"The pavilion has, to my knowledge, been used by Beta Sigma Phi, the Royal Children's Hospital Auxiliary as well as the conservation society."

The Mayor, Cr. Charles Bates: "We should get the West Side women and the croquet club together to discuss this thing, not get them tearing into each other, as Cr. Proctor suggests."

Cr. Tom Radford: "I'd be unhappy if the pavilion became anything but principally croquet club territory."

"However, we must make them understand that we aren't getting to push 15 groups onto them, we must let them know just what we mean by multiple use of buildings."

"Multiple use of buildings should be by compatible groups."

Councillors agreed that members of the croquet club should be invited to discuss the matter with the recreation and leisure committee.

Familiar face goes

Western General Hospital will lose one of its most familiar faces when Mrs. Isabel Chamberlain (pictured) leaves the hospital kiosk next week.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who has managed the kiosk with her mother, Mrs. E. Clark, for the past 11 years, said she would miss working at the hospital.

"I've made quite a few friends, especially with the nurses," she said last week.

Mrs. Chamberlain, of Noodene Avenue, Altona finishes at the kiosk next Sunday and will soon be off to Tasmania with husband, Keith and children, Dennis and Lynette, who are both married.

Together the six of them will run a hotel/motel at Toorana, about two miles out of Hobart.

Her son Dennis is a well known footballer with Seddon and won the FDL best and fairest two years ago.

Mrs. Chamberlain has lived in the western suburbs all her life. Before marrying she lived in Rayner Street, Footscray, which was named after her great grandfather, Mr. G. Rayner.

According to Mrs. Chamberlain her great grandfather owned the bluestone quarry (where the hospital car park now stands) and sold it to hospital back in 1930.

Young interest in politics?

The Young Liberal Movement and the Young Labor Association are both seeking new members.

The groups offer young people the opportunity to voice their opinion and to promote new ideas and initiatives. They also give young people the chance to have a say in their own future and the development of their country.

Both Young Liberals and Young Labor are very active movements with representation in their party's decision making processes.

Both contribute to policy and election campaign efforts and both have branches in the western suburbs.

Young Labor has 30 branches in Victoria with a State membership of 500 while the Young Liberals have 2500 members in 65 branches.

Both movements offer a wide range of activities to members, including social

Retire plan group talk

The newly-formed Williamstown branch of the Early Planning for Retirement Association will hold a public meeting on Wednesday, July 14.

The meeting will begin at 7.30 p.m. in the Williamstown Town Hall supper room.

Mr. Perce Cooper, a superannuation officer, will be guest speaker, and will talk about financial matters including probate, pensions, death duties and income tax.

There will also be speakers who have helped set up other branches of the association in Melbourne. They will talk about activities developed as part of the plan.

All speakers will be available to help and discuss matters that may be of special interest to people at the meeting.

BAY SEARCH FOR BOY SLOWS DOWN

The full-scale search for the body of a policeman's son believed drowned off Williamstown beach on June 27 will end today; but the search will not be abandoned.

-Finding report wrong

By John Dixon

Search co-ordinator, Inspector Bill Bloomcamp, said yesterday that while the full-scale search involving four sections of police would end, regular patrols would be continued for an undetermined period.

Ian, Johnson, 12, the only son of Sergeant and Mrs. Graham Johnson, of Stooke Street, Yarraville, is believed to have drowned when he jumped from a dinghy about 200 metres off Williamstown beach.

Police have been told Ian went to the beach with a man and played football with the man and a 14-year-old Williamstown boy.

The football was kicked into the sea and the three began chasing it in a dinghy, they say. They have been told Ian jumped from the boat when he became nervous at rough seas.

A 41-year-old man has several times been questioned by detectives, headed by the CIB officer-in-charge of B-police district, Chief Inspector Jack Armstrong and Footscray CIB chief, Detective Senior-Sergeant Ted Sharp.

During the search, all police in B district were rostered to take part. The Search and Rescue Squad, Boat Squad and Air Wing also took part in the search.

In addition to rostered duty, most district police continued to assist in the search during their off-duty time, some as skin divers.

The latter included the former chief of Footscray CIB, Inspector Ted Page, an experienced skin diver.

The St. John Ambulance Search and Rescue Squad and civilian skin divers also helped in the early stages and equipment was loaned by the Williamstown Commando Unit.

Insp. Bloomcamp said yesterday a television news report on Sunday night that a body of a boy about 12 had been washed up near St. Kilda was incorrect.

Two bodies were washed up during the weekend, but neither was that of a young boy, he said.

Police at all stations around Port Phillip Bay had been conducting regular searches and this would continue, he said.

Public co-operation during the search had been excellent, Insp. Bloomcamp added.

He echoed a request from Sgt. Johnson for the public and specially off duty police to be thanked for their help.

Sgt. Johnson — who has been stationed at Footscray longer than any other member of the uniformed branch — said he and his wife greatly appreciated the help and the hundreds of expressions of sympathy they had received.

School region band could swing soon

The Sunshine Region Concert Band — made up of school children from the west — may soon swing into rehearsal.

Altona Council has agreed in principle to help finance the transport costs for students from Altona schools to attend the Sunshine bandrooms for practice once the group is formed.

The schools involved are Paisley High, Altona North High, Altona High and Altona North Technical School.

All will provide about five musicians — the best they have — to join the region band.

The Education Department's Sunshine regional directorate has proposed that only the best musicians from each school be selected, to provide incentive to students to continue their musical studies.

Mr. David Collins, principal of Paisley High School, has told Altona Council that Sunshine would be far more convenient than Thornbury, which is the present band centre used by the school.

"This scheme would not only put the region on a more equal footing with the other side of town, but would also provide the initiative for other musical developments in this area," Mr. Collins said.

"The major obstacle to the growth of music in the Sunshine Region is finance and Paisley currently has 17 students in its band. We anticipate the number will increase."

"While I feel that the council's support would be greatly appreciated locally, the school would not like to see council footing the entire bus transport bill for what should be an Education Department expense," he said.

In its reply to the request for finance to help transport the Altona students to Sunshine, council asked for details of "the degree of financial assistance expected".

The council also asked the extent of departmental financial support expected, and referred the matter to estimates.

Altona Camera Club to meet

The Altona Camera Club will meet at The Homestead, 128 Queen Street, Altona, on Friday, July 9.

Members are asked to bring slides and/or prints for constructive criticism. The next competition is landscape and open, and entries are to be in by July 23.

The competition will be judged on July 30 by Mr. Don Grant, who will also give a lecture on lighting for portraiture, and show some prints to illustrate his points.

At the annual general meeting, president, Mr. Reg Osborne and secretary, Bev Bibby, were re-elected. The new treasurer is Mr. Howard Minto.

The annual meeting was told that the club is now 10 years old.

Information about the club can be obtained from Beverley Bibby, 398 1724.

He resigns

Mr. John Harris, the YMCA youth worker based in Williamstown over the past few months has resigned.

Mr. Harris will stay on the job until a new worker is found, expected to be by the first week of August.

Williamstown councillors voted on Monday night to thank Mr. Harris for "his excellent work" in the district.

Course to help Grow, grow

A two-day training course in all aspects of the Grow movement will be held this month with the aim of expanding Grow in the Western region.

Grow — formerly called Recovery — is a voluntary association of people who know they are inadequate or maladjusted to life, who earnestly desire to change, and who help one another to get well.

It is anonymous and non-denominational and is open to all.

Members share and care and help each other along the way to health and maturity.

There are no dues or fees. Anyone interested in going to the course—or in a Grow meeting, should ring 509 7832 during office hours.

Seagulls have glorious 4th

Williamstown avenged their shock defeat at the hands of Camberwell with a stunning win at the Seaside Oval on Sunday.

In this, the return game, the Wells appeared all at sea on the tricky oval at Gellibrand Point.

Umpire McGibbon had charge of the July 4 game and the red white and blue Wells men sadly let the side down.

Camberwell's star, Hammond, goaled soon after play started, and Seagull coach Mal Allan responded by putting his own star back Col Boyd, on him.

Boyd did a good job of keeping Hammond out of the game in a repeat of his efforts on Miller of Dandenong.

Then the Gulls began to hammer away at goal, with majors to Greg Tweedly, Jeff Scott, Mike Brown, Scott again, then Brown again.

That burst gave Williamstown a handy 25-point lead at the first change.

The Williamstown crowd was in full voice as the Gulls streamed down to the tennis court end and goaled through Gardner.

Gardner chipped into the play, capped to find "decoy" Brown, who posted his fourth.

The Wells went forward, but hit the "brick wall" of Boyd, Alexander and Porcivina.

Back down the field Jeff Scott made what looked like a suicide pass to Mike Brown.

However it "all came together" and his magic boot goaled once more.

The visitors had a winner in Spithall, and coach Boden was using him cleverly to keep Chalmers out of the play.

Brown — he is a great player — goaled once more to give the Gulls a 21-point lead at half time.

The third quarter was all Williamstown. They swept forward time after time, for a score of 9.8 for the quarter.

Frank Briner, who had been quiet in the first half, chipped in for two goals. Scott, Percy and Peter Gardner added more.

The ruck work of Dave Marshall was superb in his first full game with the Seagulls.

The final term opened up with Camberwell peppering away at goal.

In spite of rocklike defences they managed three goals.

However, Brown replied with two more to stem the tide.

With Chalmers came off with a leg injury to be replaced by Paul Garth who had played with the seconds the day before.

There was great excitement as Mal Allan cleared to Bob Percy who passed to Brown, and everyone wanted him to get his 10th — but it was not to be.

Peter Moore came off, after doing a good job on the backline, and David Smith replaced him.

Time was running out for the red, white and blue blokes as Scott booted the Seagulls' 24th, and then Percy nailed the coffin with the 25th.

Williamstown 6.9 10.11 19.19 25.24 (174). Camberwell 3.2 7.8 11.10 18.11 (119).

Vikings shoot RAAF down

by Alan Burkitt

The speedy Vikings, led by the Morgan twins and Gordon Wilson, raced away from a top-heavy RAAF Tottenham team at Grant Reserve on Sunday.

Glen and Robin Morgan and Wilson scored four goals each as the RAAF's bigger men were left floundering.

When the ball did get past the centre it was turned out by an in-form Viking backline, with no-one playing better than Geoff Bebed at centre half-back.

Flankers Jack Roosenboom and young Russell Walsh helped form a hard-hitting and dependable line of defence.

The Vikings played stop-start football in the first half, to lead by only 39 points at half-time. After being told by coach Mal Tisdale to kick long and more direct, Altona kicked nine goals straight in the third before Alan Walgers added a behind after the siren.

RAAF added only two points to their half-time score, and could do little to stop the Vikings who added 16.7 in the second half.

RAAF have some good big men who held their own in marking and ruck duels, but lack the speedy little men to take the ball away from the packs.

Scores: Altona City 3.1, 8.6, 17.7, 24.13 (157) d. RAAF Tottenham 1.1, 2.3, 2.4, 2.5 (17).

Best: G. Morgan, G. Bebed, G. Wilson, R. Morgan, M. Tisdale, R. Walsh, J. Roosenboom, M. Howarth.

Goals: Morgan Bros., G. Wilson 4, W. Jones, A. Wilson 4, W. Jones, A. Donnelly 3, A. Walgers 2, Tisdale, Bebed, I. Scott, G. Sorrell.

RESERVES: The Viking reserves moved to second place when they easily defeated former top side, South Melbourne Bloods.

Steve Grainger continued his good roving form and was well supported by David Hobbs in only his second game. Hobbs is a brother of ex-Footscray rover and coach of Newport's 1974 premiership side, Mervyn Hobbs.

The Viking backline was best served by Graham Hardham and Edi Puhar, while young Brian Mildenhall and Frank Howard were best of the big men.

SCORES: Altona City 17.12 (114), Bloods 8.7. BEST: Grainger, Hobbs, Hardham, Puhar, Mildenhall, Howard.

GOALS: J. Male 6, Hobbs 4, D. Hudson 3, A. Wilson 2, N. Healey, Mildenhall.

UNDER 15: A seven-goal burst in the second quarter won the game for Sunshine Heights on Saturday. Altona fought back hard but just failed to bridge the gap.

Scores: Altona City 6.3 (39), Sunshine Heights 8.3 (51).

BEST: G. Radoicovich, P. Richards, D. Schmidt, N. Condon, G. Scholes.

GOALS: W. Smith, P. Richards 2, S. Kimpton, G. Burnett.

UNDER 13 SCORES: Altona City 3-6 (24) Laverton 4-4 (28). BEST: C. Money, C. Brown, A. Shaw, B. Schmidt, B. Scholes. GOALS: M. Cooper 2, C. Brown.

UNDER 12 SCORES: Altona City 6-5 (41), Werribee 3-3 (21). BEST: R. Martin, A. Baldwin, C. Burkitt, J. Field, C. Skerry. GOALS: Burkitt 4, Field, C. Phillips. UNDER 11. SCORES: Altona City 2-2 (14), Williamstown Juniors 2-3 (15) BEST: A. Teagle, A. Hudson, M. Robinson, D. Cooper, D. Brown. GOALS: A. Hudson, P. Stewart.

UNDER 10 SCORES: Altona City 1-5 (11), ANBY 2-3 (15). BEST A team effort. GOAL: J. Michael.

CYMS topple Wests

Williams town CYMS took the points in a vital game with top side West Newport at the weekend.

CYMS came smartly into attack and led all day. At half-time, they were 11 points in front.

The third quarter was even but Town's superiority in the rucks had a telling effect in the final term.

Final scores: Williamstown CYMS 13-13 (91) d. West Newport 9-14 (68). Best: W. Rosenzweig, J. Forbes, M. Crump, J. Wickham, D. Wilkie, R. Borradale, P. Walsh, M. Crump. Goals: W. Rosenzweig, P. VanDerWeert 4, M. Crump, B. Norton, H. Wilson, R. Zammit, J. Zamykal.

The Reserves were not so lucky — the side showed drive but players must learn to play the full 100 minutes of football.

West Newport started with the breeze and had two goals on the board before CYMS scored.

At half-time, West led by 10 points and took complete control in the third quarter. As a result, West led by 50 points at the final change.

CYMS fought back but could not bridge the gap.

Final scores: CYMS 12.11 (83) lost to West Newport 16.17 (113). Best: W. Gerring, J. Stonehouse, B. Tee, J. Rollason, A. Lee, R. Barlow. Goals: A. Lee 3, H. Hrvatin, I. McGowan, J. Rollason 2, G. Micallef, P. Neenan W Sandford.

This week the first play away to Newport Central at 2.30 p.m. and the Reserves are away to Newport Central with a 12 noon start.

ANNUAL CRICKET MEETING

The annual meeting of the Williamstown Cricket Club will be held in the Williamstown town hall supper room on Wednesday, July 28, at 8 p.m.

Business of the evening will be the election of officers and adoption of the balance sheet.

Williamstown cricketers reached the zone semi-final in the 1975-76 season, only to be beaten by the over-all runners-up, Geelong.

Les Joslin has agreed to coach the side again for the coming season.

Old and new players are invited to the meeting.

The annual meeting of the Williamstown Cricket Club will be held in the Williamstown town hall supper room, on Wednesday, July 28, at 8 p.m.

Business of the evening will be the election of officers and adoption of the balance sheet.

Williamstown cricketers reached the zone semi-final in the 1975-76 season, only to be beaten by the over-all runners-up, Geelong.

Les Joslin has agreed to coach the side again for the coming season.

Old and new players are invited to the meeting.
